Oh one world, oh
Sitting here feeding all these numbers into my machine
A number for every little thing I see
I execute and they come dancing in dresses black and green
I recognise the number shining out at me
Telling me,

One world, one love, one reason why
One hope, one dream, one reason why, one reason why

Many a good mind stops to reason, and pause for a while Many a big mind doesn't even try
And those who should know better love the word and praise the l etter

They wonder how it went When I just wonder why I wonder

One world, one love, one reason why
One hope, one dream, one reason why, one reason why

They're crying in future tenses
Tearing down the walls and fences
No matter how I count, it still comes to the same amount, it's

One world, one love, one reason why
One hope, one dream, one reason why, one reason why

One world, one love, one reason why
One hope, one dream, one reason why, one reason why