I'm Your Love

Chiara Civello

Another day in my life In between spirals and flames I am good at running away, Not quite this time Hopelessly losing my mind In your wild blinding eyes Until the other night When she walked by

There, I saw the flare of your lies Felt the burns I denied So I gathered all my strength And pretend you'd say that

I'm your love, your only love Way deeper than the deep blue sea And I'm your dream, your only dream So much higher than a star Can ever be Quietly looking your way While you're still chained to her eyes My silence is your disguise But I don't mind

Cause I feel the chill of the night Taste the moon in my wine So I gather all my strength And pretend that you say
