Social Currency

Children Collide

tonight is gonna be the night the night you finally win finally win the fight and today is gonna be the day the day you finally break finally break away and i am gonna be the guy the guy who stops you wondering why and you are gonna be the one the one that just wonders how it's done so so social currency so so social currency so so social currency so so social currency this year is gonna be the year the year you lay to rest all of your fears cos this time it has to be the time the time you finally stop waiting in line so so social currency so so social currency