Victims Of The Night

Chinchilla

In the deepest darkest and loneliest night the death looked int o my eyes

He told me that my time has come to say goodbye, my life is gon

I asked him for a new chance to play with my cards To make all well in my life what I've never done

The death he has laughed and took his precious time To play a match for my own head what a exciting affair

So I prayed inside of me heart to the devil and promised him my soul

For a little bit more and better lifetime and the devil began to sign

Lay down your cards, It'll be your chance
The winner takes your life tonight
Lay down your cards, It'll be your time
To start again with lucky hands
Lay down your cards, It'll be your chance
But you'll pay with your soul tonight
Lay down your cards, It'll be your time
To the evil journey of no return

I picked up my evil and bewitched card and shuffled for my life so far

I took a look inside my hand, I couldn't believe, a Royal Flash

The death closed angry his rage glowing eyes He had lost against this stupid and dull dude

Angry and wounded he left immediately the hall To kill some helpless flies, they are his victims at that night

I lived my life now all so well (I) didn theard warnings and callings

The devil proposed me to play for my life and he began to sing

Lay down your cards, It'll be your chance
The winner takes your life tonight
Lay down your cards, It'll be your time
To start again with lucky hands
Lay down your cards, It'll be your chance
But you'll pay with your soul tonight
Lay down your cards, It'll be your time
To the eyil journey of no return
Sponto

Sponzor: www.srovnavac.cz - šetříme na pojištění!