Footsteps

Chris de Burgh

And from that moment, I dreamed I could fly, And from that mountain I reached for the sky; Through tears and good times, I found my way; Those years are calling me again; Then I hear footsteps echoing along the winding road, I can hear voices singing all the songs I have known, And I see faces, All the ones I've loved along the way, People and places, They're here again, they're here again... Voices..... Voices..... Faces... Places.... And I hear voices.....