

Since I've Had You

Chris Murray

since I've had you
nothing else will do

maybe it's time for me to find another lover but it's you that I can't get over I pray time will tell the truth about this spell I'm under but see, all it's telling me, there can never be never be another

since I've had you
nothing else will do

every day it seems to me that I'm just going through the motions and wasting time my memory, every moment brings to me the way life used to be it's been so hard to fight all those demons in the night without you here with me, telling me it's all alright yes I've been holding back the tears through all these lonely lonely years

since I've had you
nothing else will do