Little Torch

Chris Whitley

Here she comes catching on fire again Casting all restraints to the wind Fanning out her flame to little men

Well, they never gonna take your heart away Like a million to one, you're the one

I would side with you, you're the one Bright as you want to, you're the one

Now about to rise and run But they never gonna let you get away Well, the world will follow always

Here she comes sending the faithless home Tending these fuses alone Offending the ice age, you're the one

I would side with you, you're the one As bright as you want to, you're the one I would side with you, you're the one