Chrisette Michele

My Heart

Chrisette Michele Aha

Give away all of your devotion Loveless, abandoned, open, free Whoever calling not a hopeless notion Mmm wear your red heart on your sleeve

And the lover comes He can feel your love He could steal your love Your heart

And the lover comes He can take your love He can break your love Your heart

We all fall down again We all fall down again We all fall down again We all fall down again

We get back up Run back to love Cause we have faith In God above

Stand up, go Stand up, go

Why do I give up my affection? Why do I still need? Still believe Why love still has my attention My addiction humanly is

And the lover comes She can feel my love She can steal my love My heart

And the lover comes She can take my love She can break my love My heart

We all fall down again We all fall down again We all fall down again We all fall down again

We get back up Run back to love Cause we have faith In God above

Stand up, go

Stand up, go

See when there's really nothing left is when you break that pattern And bring it back into the fact that you were born to matter Badder than any single rapper Improving from before to after A word for love and never cause I have to Everybody falls, just get back up to the ladder

We all fall down again We all fall down again We all fall down again We all fall down again

We get back up Run back to love Cause we have faith In God above