I been laying here, staring at the wall Since I met you I've been so messed up it's critical I want your everything

But you ain't giving back It's getting deep now It's getting deep now

I was crazy, so so naive too You mean everything to me But I mean nothing to you

Never should've said hello

Never should have let my eyes turn back

I was happy on my own

I never should've said, said, said hello...hello

Never should've said hello

Never should have let my eyes turn back

I was happy on my own

I never should've said, said, said hello...hello

I been laying here, staring at the wall Since I met you I've been so messed up it's critical I want your everything

But you ain't giving back It's getting deep now

Never should've said hello

Never should have let my eyes turn back

I was happy on my own

I never should've said, said, said hello...hello

Never should've said hello

Never should have let my eyes turn back

I was happy on my own

I never should've said, said, said hello...hello