

Venus Kissed The Moon

Christine Lavin

Venus kissed the Moon tonight
We watched her in the Sky
She's been - flirtin' with him for centuries
Too bad he's so shy

He's waxing
He's waining
You don't see Venus complaining
She'll steal a kiss whenever she can

Not 'till 2031
Will this happen again.
I kissed you in the taxicab
And touched your handsome face

I said, I feel like a satellite
Away too long in space.
You roll down the window
To gain a clearer view.

Now you're
Gazing at the Heavens
I'm gazing at you.
2031 you say

That's an eternity
So far away
Not to me
Time and Distance

Make no difference
In this celestial love affair
Oh you laugh and you hold me tight
Your eyes are shining bright

Like the luminescent street lights
Like those lovers way up there.
Venus kissed the Moon tonight
It's okay - This is a leap year.

Then she kept right on travelling
Centriphical force, my dear.
He'll keep waxing,
And waining,

You won't see Venus complaining
She'll steal a kiss whenever she can
This will happen again
This will happen again.
