

A Reason To Live

Cindy Morgan

How fragile, how frail
What a picture perfect place in time
I recall it so well, in my mind
Went for a walk in the snow
Got lost in our innocence
He wore his best intentions
How grand it would be to go back
Oh, too bad, life doesn't work
Oh no life doesn't work like that
'Cause you can turn back
To all the memories
But you can't turn back the clock
You can make life all it can be
But you can't make it something it's not
Oh 'cause yesterday is yesterday and
Tomorrow is still a day away
So what do you say, there's a reason to love today

I see him there
Under a starlit sky
And if moonlight was magic
He'd wander back in time
To a night just like this
When the whole world was changed
With just one kiss
There was always a sweet light in her eyes
But now he's sure she's an angel in heaven tonight

He said what I would give
Just to see her face
Oh, but life doesn't work
Oh no life doesn't work that way
'Cause you can turn back
To all the memories
But you can't turn back the clock
You can make life all it can be
But you can't make it something it's not
Oh 'cause yesterday is yesterday and
Tomorrow is still a day away
So what do you say, there's a reason to live today
Oh, Savior in heaven
You are the music
That moves us to dance
The love, that leaves nothin
Nothing to chance
Oh-oh nothing to chance
Don't you know that Yesterday is yesterday and
Tomorrow is still a day away
So what do you say, there's a reason to live
A reason to live today
