

A Darkened Mind

Circus Maximus

We walk alone to the edge of insanity
In the end of time we fall... tonight?

Never walk alone outside or pull the strings when you are alive in a dying world It's a mesmerizing thing
These are the nights where the holy morning rise Now it's time for you to open your eyes

When i look into your darkened mind i take you in, no compromise
There's something wrong inside my head

Can you forget all the promises, is the truth too hard to take?
Now i know there must be time to forgive, we will be one again

I don't know where to find myself, though i can feel it anyway
I won't forget all the things that you promised me
My darkened mind will never set me free
