

Write It All Down

Citizen Fish

If these some momentary words were caught on paper read
By on or two or twenty thousand people never met
And if a word inspired a thought and carried on the chain
What's written down may go around to meet up face to face

Blink, and then, as people say, it seems like only yesterday (2
x)

So take time out to write about the difference between The now and then and how and when that changes what will be Depends on who's still reading in a future flashing past Communal synchronicity or everything too fast

Blink, and then, well either way, it seems like only yesterday
(2x)

When death came round we understood
That all these moments that we thought
Were written down, were gone for good
Unless they were written down of course

Blink, and then, as people say, it seems like only yesterday (2
x)