There's every good reason for letting you go She's sneaky and smoked out And it's starting to show

I never let you go (3x)

I never let you turn around, our back on each other That's a good idea, break a promise to your mother Turn around your back on each other

You say that Ive changed Well maybe I did
But even if I changed
What's wrong with it

I never let you go (3x)

I never let you turn around, our back on each other That's a good idea, break a promise to your mother Turn around your back on each other

And all our friends are gone and gone
And all the time moves on and on
And all I know is it's wrong, it's wrong
And all I know is it's wrong, it's wrong, it's wrong

If there's a reason, it's lost on me Maybe well be friends, I guess we'll see

I never let you go (3x)

I never let you turn around, our back on each other It's a good idea, break a promise to your mother Turn around your back on each other Good idea, break a promise to your mother

Turn around your back on each other What a good idea, break a promise to your mother Turn around your back on each other What a good idea...

I remember the stupid things, the mood rings, the bracelets and the beads Nickels and dimes, yours and mine, did you cash in all your dreams You don't dream for me, no You don't dream for me, no But I still feel you pulse like sonar from the days in the waves That girl is like a sunburn I would like to save The girl is like a sunburn I would like to save She's like a sunburn
