

when will I see an end to distruction and woe and how will I see no division, in my life

there comes a time to make amends never too late to try again
to save our soul

when will I see an end to the famine and war and when will I say there's no solution no more

all that I see is soul distroying, greed when will I say there's no solution to meet
