

I Know How The River Feels

Clay Aiken

They say for everyone, there's that certain one
Out there, somewhere
I'd been looking hard,
searching every heart
Getting nowhere
Didn't know I was making my way to you

Now I know how the river feels
When it reaches the sea
And finally finds the place
It was always meant to be
Holding fast, home at last
Knowing the journey's through
Lying here with you
I know how the river feels

Miles of loneliness,
now makes perfect sense
Here beside you
Tears like water fall, it was worth it all
Just to find you
And yours are the last arms
I'll run to

Now I know how the river feels
When it reaches the sea
And finally finds the place
It was always meant to be
Holding fast, home at last
Knowing the journey's through
Lying here with you
I know how the river feels
