

I Won't Have the Heart

Clay Walker

The frost is on the ground in this tiny Texas town
And you're packing up the U-haul in the yard
I gave you everything, all I'm taking is the blame
And you wonderin' if I'm gonna fall apart
Well, darling I won't have the heart

I won't have the heart to love again
Just ask anyone who knows
I won't have the heart to love again
You'll be taking it with you when you go

The morning air is cold, it sends shivers to my soul
But it's warmer than the look I get from you
And if you're gonna leave, tell me where does that leave me
And don't tell me I'll find somebody new
'Cause darling, I won't have the heart to

I won't have the heart to love again
Just ask anyone who knows
I won't have the heart to love again
You'll be taking it with you when you go

No darling, I won't have the heart to
I won't have the heart to love again
Just ask anyone who knows
I won't have the heart to love again
You'll be taking it with you when you go
You'll be taking it with you when you go
