I'll Be Gone

Since before I learned to walk, I've been running And I could always see the light before the dawn Somewhere someone won't even see me coming And before they see me going, I'll be gone Now you've got questions I don't care to answer And I don't get off on leading people on It's safe to say, I'm no second chancer And the chances are, I don't know right from wrong You could never change my mind and I won't change my ways And from the start the lines have all been drawn That I'll just leave you behind forgetting all my yesterdays I said, before you see me going, I'll be gone You could never change my mind and I won't change my ways And from the start the lines have all been drawn That I'll just leave you behind forgetting all my yesterdays I said before you see me going, I'll be gone
