Internal World

Cloud Nothings

Say what you are to anyone And you reveal you're weak, here Where would you go to lose all your angles? How would you make it complete?

You nullify and cut em off But utilize the brain, hey Who would you follow Any way they wanted If at the end you'd be free?

And if it looks like mine anymore Internal world, the one worth living But if it looks like mine anymore Internal world, the one worth living But if it looks like mine anymore Internal world, the one worth living But if it looks like mine anymore Internal world, the one worth living

But I'm not the one who's always right I'm not the one who's always right I'm not the one who's always right I'm not the one who's always right

Nobody is an enemy Nobody's just one hair, here Where would you go to lose all your angles? How would you make it complete?

You have a face for everyone You have a face for me, yeah Who would you follow Any way they wanted If at the end you'd be free?

And if it looks like mine anymore Internal world, the one worth living But if it looks like mine anymore Internal world, the one worth living But if it looks like mine anymore Internal world, the one worth living But if it looks like mine anymore Internal world, the one worth living

But I'm not the one who's always right I'm not the one who's always right I'm not the one who's always right I'm not the one who's always right

I'm not the one who's always right I'm not the one who's always right I'm not the one who's always right I'm not the one who's always right I'm not the one who's always right I'm not the one who's always right I'm not the one who's always right I'm not the one who's always right