

Chamberlain

Coheed and Cambria

Worlds are burning out to the endless shame of this mistaken way
We wither on and on in this game we play Go ring on the bells of war and head straight into the lion's cage
You went and told your secrets here

So you can take to the grave cause there is no stopping me, so long Lungs hang in this dead man's curtain
Believe in me cause I won't believe in this

The end is now starting
oh, so please just take your seat
and live your last moments waving goodbye, desperately Having a nice day while we're swinging from gallows perched atop Fool sit still, watch them, please take your number

Spill on through killing fields, the blood of desperate men can change
The thirst of a boy who breathes again

So you can take to the grave
but there is no stopping me
Lungs hang in this dead man's curtain
Believe in me cause I have been holding you back

The end is now starting
and live your last moments waving goodbye, desperately
Having a nice day while we're
swinging from gallows perched atop
Fool sit still, watch them, please take your number

There is no room for words against them now Cause you're my guiding light, they couldn't make a sound
Is there a way to say, to incriminate, oh, listen to me Oh, well baby, open that door

So you can take to the grave
Lungs hang in this dead man's curtain
Believe in me as I won't believe in this

The end is now starting
and live your last moments waving goodbye, desperately
Having a nice day while we're
swinging from gallows perched atop
Fool sit still, watch them, please take your number

Hallelujah, Hallelujah Hallelujah, Halle--
