

Long Road Blues

Cold Harbour

You think I'm too young to understand
But you have no idea of who I really am
I'm a long way from home
I don't know if I can get used to this
Feeling of being alone
The only thing keeping me going
Knowing I'll be with her soon
The only company I have is this half moon
The ashtray is has been filled
My cup of tea has been spilled
I'm going to have to rebuild

Every night that I try to get to sleep
All this memories we will keep
That key to my heart is in her hand
I really hope she understands
I am doing all I can

Keep thinking of ways to describe the way I feel
The sun has gone, this is too surreal
It didn't feel right watching her as I leave
I have nothing left to believe
Nothing left to believe

Keep thinking of ways to describe the way I feel
The sun has gone, this is too surreal
It didn't feel right watching her as I leave
I have nothing to believe

THIS IS THE LONG ROAD BLUES
BUT I'M STILL MISSING YOU
