

No One Knows

Colin Hay

Everybody wants a piece of my time,
They always ask dumb questions, and drink my cheap red wine
I get so tired I want to run and hide, and scream into my pillow
Oh dear Lord, if you could see me now

How will I know when I find
Love in my heart, peace in my mind?

The sun, it always shine in angel town
It burns into the back of my neck, and I am going down
I want to be strong but I feel so weak, I'm weeping like a willow
Oh my my, if you could see me now

How will I know when I find
Love in my heart, peace in my mind?
I planted the vine now it hope it grows
I'm asking for signs but no one knows

Why are we here in this space and time
With only love and fear, I'm not sure which is mine
This is just a song, and this is how it goes
And as far as I can tell, no one knows

How will I know when I find
Love in my heart, peace in my mind?
