She Put the Blame on You

Colin Hay

Your friend and mine came to see me today
She said that she's left you forever this time
She said you've been nasty in your own special way
All I could say was she was looking fine

She put the blame on you
She put the blame on you

She said you'd have to try quite a bit harder
When she tried to get close you just pushed her away
She said you hurt her and treat her like you were her father
So don't act so surprised that's the price that you pay

She put the blame on you
She had no choice there was nothing she could do
She put the blame on you
Now you're alone and you're lookin a bit peeky
She put the blame on you
She had no choice there was nothing she could do
She put the blame on you
