

Have Faith

Collide

Climb all your mountains to see what you see fly all you warriors and don't fear the skies ask all your prophets and then you decide heed all your warnings and see through the night feel the ice is melting see it burning down hear the answers calling look until they're found dance all you dreamers and lovers of life know that there's more than just black or white shed your disguises and don't criticize seek all your answers and sleep through the night

feel the ice is melting see it burning down
hear the answers calling look until they're found the answer lies inside...