

Roses

Colour Haze

It feels like roses in my head
A better smell, spikes through my back
A greater love, a better feeling and a better life
This is a jungle as they say
Do we need to live that anyway?
Remember we are all guests to each other in every time
I can't stand your violent pose
So let me give you another rose
A rose of love and laughter and all the good things you
Can't find

All those noises everywhere
Never true and never fair
And all that I can do is to smile and wipe the tears away
So all you liars and all you thieves
You are invited, do as you please
You only steal your luck away
Every minute, each and every day
It feels like roses in my head
A better smell, a stitch in my back
A greater love, it turns me on and on and on and on
