

Laugh & Grow Fat

Common Enemy

People have been telling me... all my life
That I'll never amount to a thing
They say I gotta wake up... and face the real world
Well I'd rather live in fantasy

[Chorus]
The life I lead is a simple one
And I don't have any regrets
As long as I can do exactly what I want
Until my death

I don't see the importance in impressing other people
In having a career or a wife
I'm perfectly content with listening to punk
And skating for the rest of my life

[Chorus]

So laugh and grow fat, and live in excess
Until the day I die
Not worried about hell or morality
Because I know that's all a lie
