

Born Again Question

Conditions

I've heard every word, and I've been where you've been
But I left it cause I was ashamed of Watching kids turn to slaves as they ran down the page
To become exactly what they're afraid of

So leave me alone, leave me alone
I'm so tired of what you believe in
If you're heading home, make your way home
You'll stay far away from me then

So they come to your door and they fall on the floor to seduce you
A beggar in nice clothes
Money then grows on trees with your heart as a seed
When it's planted and watered with false hope

So leave me alone, leave me alone
I'm so tired of what you believe in
If you're heading home, make your way home
You'll stay far away from me then

They ask for your eyes to hold up the sky another day
But I live forever, deep in the minds
I didn't try to invade
