Well I built the world around me Like a blueprint I've been studying for years And I've been getting lost along the way As I disconnect the past and present Others have defined my biggest fears Now I don't hear a single word they say

Open eyes Clouded for a history Walking blind Believing what we think we believe And no we won't stop We won't stop building In our invisible worlds And when they fall The clarity will kill us all

And it comes to us by nature The confidence in how it should be Everyone's a criminal of pride And we reach inside of one another Vilify the past and let it speak And whatever remains is cast aside

Open eyes Clouded for a history Walking blind Believing what we think we believe And no we won't stop We won't stop building In our invisible worlds And when they fall The clarity will kill us all

We build our walls and hope they never fade away, no (We won't stop, we won't stop building) And what feels like comfort ends up being our decay (We won't stop, we won't stop building)

Until open eyes Clouded from a history Come to find All the people underneath

Open eyes Clouded for a history Walking blind Believing what we think we believe And no we won't stop We won't stop building In our invisible worlds And when they fall The clarity will kill us all
