

Skeleton

Conditions

If actions speak louder than words I'll make it clear
By clenching both my fists I know my clarity is here
And it's been a long way down for me
It's been a long way down but now I finally see

Believe too long and it starts coming true
It could be wrong but it won't matter

Am I the only one who sees what you've become Another way to say that there is nothing left
Someone I used to know buried so far below
And now we're buried under what we'll never understand

Like a stranger I am on the outside looking in
I tore myself apart and I am left a skeleton
And it's been a long way down for me
It's been a long way down but now I finally see

I will never understand
