

Music Of The Night

Coney Hatch

Hold back the daytime
Don't want to see the dawn
The spell must not be broken
So elusive, here then gone
If peace and calm were energy
This silence would shine bright
So listen if you will, my friend
To the music of the night

Let the fates and furies quarrel
How the new day will proceed
Let them end it all tomorrow
If they'll grant me my reprieve
In a silence as seductive
As Circe's Sirens call
The music of the night-time
Will captivate us all

Silently drifting away
Waking from dreams of the day
You dark melody, you must stay

So vivid in the gloom now
My thoughts in sharp relief
Between an earth and sky so time-tied
A sanctuary for the thief
In the solitude of morning
Before the sun begins his flight
Let me stay a little longer
In the music of the night

Silently drifting away
Waking from dreams of the day
You dark melody, you must stay

Music of the night
Music of the night
Music of the night

Music of the night
Feel the music of the night
Music of the night
Music of the night
Music of the night
Feel the music
Music of the night
