I Never Once Stopped Loving You

Conway Twitty

The nights were dark and long, I spent a million all alone But I never once stopped loving you My world was cold and still my dreams lay unfulfilled But I never once stopped loving you

I never once stopped believing We'd love again the way we used to do And today when you came back, my patience was rewarded For I never once stopped loving you

I could have loved another but I chose to wait and suffer For I never once stopped loving you And I prayed to God to guide you 'till I could be beside you And I never once stopped loving you

I never once stopped believing We'd love again the way we used to do And today when you came back, my patience was rewarded For I never once stopped loving you
