

Take What You Want

Corrosion of Conformity

J-J-

Just as long as we are here, standin' tall for one more year

Sing out loud and keep away the cold

When you're blind and you can't see, realize it's them, not me

I might be hard to find, and you know it happens every time

When I'm tired I crawl, I can't stand to see you fall

And the years they don't treat you like they used to

But when you're wide and I'm awake I got time enough for days

Take what you want, it just might set you free, not me

Oh no way, I've been up for a thousand days

But you can cut me down when I'm old and gray

And if you catch me on the move, you can come along

Or you can disapprove I might be hard to find

You know it happens every time

When I'm tired, I crawl, I can't stand to see you fall

And the years they don't treat you like they used to

But when you're wide and I'm awake I got time enough for days

Take what you want, it just might set you free, yeah

Does it feel the same, does it feel the same

Does it feel the same, does it feel the same

When I'm tired I crawl like the savior in us all

But I don't mind, it's somethin' that I'm used to

And when it's time to go, I just thought I'd let you know

Farewell this time, you're always on my mind

When I'm tired I crawl, it's a shame to see you fall

And the years they don't treat you like they used to

But when you're wide and I'm awake

Baby, I got enough damn time for a million days

Take a what you want, it just might set you free

When you're up you roam, it's a shame to see you go

And the years they don't treat you like they used to

Just as every light you see might be the one that sets you free

Keep on risin' like the ones you used to know, let's go
