Counterparts

Compare our dependence to predator and prey
A parallel engraved into our souls by the work of broken hands
(Contradiction carved in canvas)
(And our nail-beds ache from scratching at the surface)

Coerced by your creation Finding foundation in decay With the culmination of our failure on display Convince yourself I am your greatest masterpiece

Disassemble me however you see fit
And put me back together absolving me of my impurities
And you know I'd welcome your embrace
Even if your arms resembled teeth

Cover me in scars
Close your eyes in case I bleed
I'd let you cover me in scars if you could carry me forever

Carry me forever in your heart Carry me forever in your heart Carry me forever in your heart

A predator, a prey Release me from the mouth of dependency Forgive me for my absence Our love will know not wasted time