Jumping Ship

Counterparts

As time passes by, I feel everything changing but me. I will no t feel the sting of defeat. I've watched days become months, be come years. and I've lost all faith in progression. I will neve r allow myself to exchange all my morals for acceptance. If thi s is truly where I belong, I'll fucking be here until the end o f time. I've watched everyone around me jump ship, and I hope t hey're left to sink. The current will carry us. I am proud of a 11 that I've become, and I'm well aware that I have steered mys elf in the right direction. And life is your's to destroy, I ju st can't admire the path you've chosen. I would rather isolate myself than be a walking definition of travesty. I watched you do away with everything. I would love nothing more than to watc h this world swallow you whole. You were the catalyst for your downfall. But where the rest have failed, we are bound to succe ed. And mark my fucking words, as long as we are breathing, we will overcome. The integrity that we emanate day-to-day is unpa ralleled, and our efforts will not go unnoticed. We will be rem embered.