

He Will Call You Baby

Cowboy Junkies

He will call you, "Baby"
But will he listen when you cry?
He will call you, "Sweetheart"
But always seem apart
And he will break all your fences down
Trample all into the ground
He will call you, "Baby"

She will call you, "Honey"
And leave you twisting in the wind
She will call you, "Darling"
Keep you stunned and wondering
She will take you to another world
Where the winds of confusion swirl
She will call you, "Honey"

We should call them lucky
As they watch their babies dance
Or maybe call them crazy
For ever thinking they have a chance
They will carry her as far as they can
Then abandon her once again
They will call her baby

They will call her baby
And they will call her baby
They will call her baby

...