My Wild Child

Cowboy Junkies

Betrayed? It's the question That I am asking And just a lucky one deceived by too much love

Confused, is the issue I'm in need of high rescue Another lucky one, stunned by too much love

My wild child She's my salvaged shipwreck My wild child, she's my stone My wild child She's my constant reminder My wild child, she's my home

Lost, is the place Where I'm hammerin' stakes Sign says, 'A lucky one, done in by too much love'

Saved, is the state That we are told was graced You was just a lucky one, betrayed by too much love

My wild child She's my salvaged shipwreck My wild child, she's my stone My wild child She's my constant reminder My wild child, she's my home

Life, is the riddle Of which, we're caught in the middle A couple of lucky ones Tangled up in too much love

My wild child She's my salvaged shipwreck My wild child, she's my stone My wild child She's my constant reminder My wild child, she's my home My wild child, brings me home
