Everything Changes/Nothing Is Ever Truly Lost

Crime In Stereo

Home: Embrace the concept, can't afford the place. As the long knives of the night were keeping you awake, I called you up jus t to learn the rain stretched across the states, drowning the s oft features of your face. for heaven's sake, it just goes to s how: you can't hang out and just go to shows from your studio a partment hiding from the student loan department all alone. It just goes to show when we're on the road just going to shows I feel the long chains of space around our throats. But I miss yo u. And I'm coming home.