

Death In The Womb

Cro-Mags

I can tell you that the murder's plain to see
Every time I think about the unborn's misery
I know that every soul's got a right to live
And so you take that life that only god could give

Oh, you know it's true
Oh, your body your choice
Now listen to your unborn babies voice

You know I'm never gonna see the light of day
Not a single word ever will I say
When there's death in the womb life is lost
And your life will someday be the cost

You see the prophecy's unfolding
They told us what this age would bring
I've taken shelter in your womb
And it's become my resting tomb

I can tell you that the murder's plain to see
Every time I think about the unborn's misery
I know that every soul's got a right to live
And so you take that life that only god could give
