

You spend the night trying to convince me to release you in exchange for the silence, for the silence that will never come

What's inside me can't define me.

My true belief is in nothing, how long does it take to find something searching but i can't find myself, a long, long time ago.

On my darkest day, should I show you my way.

i've given everything so give me your last word.

i know, im hollow. begging you to follow

on my darkest day, should i obey my way?

a monster with no name, accepting all of you.

i'm satisfied, alone inside, at home inside, alone inside.

My true belief is in nothing, how long does it take to find something searching but i can't find myself, a long, long time ago.

i know, im hollow. begging you to follow