Steeple Outro

My heart was weary. My soul was heavy. My bones were aching, Lord.

I needed waking. I needed breaking. I needed you, my Lord.

And you took my hand And led me to the river And buried all I was.

Then you kissed my face And told me I was yours.

And I knew I'd found my home.

Crowder