Johnny Ringo

Crown the Empire

This is your time Your life's flashing before your eyes And soon enough you will realize This is goodbye But what if I gave you a chance? You just have to sell your soul

Look around, what do you see? The choices you never had the guts to make? I'm sorry you never could be The man that you wanted But regret is wasted on me

I can feel air inside my lungs again All because of you I can rebuild my life and start again All because of you

This feeling's amazing, I know But be careful, you know not what you wish for Granted life again, but now you've cheated death There's no where to run when you run from yourself

But fear not for as long as you live you are mine And even in death you will find You've lived with regret for so long but now Is your chance to change what has been wrong

I can feel air inside my lungs again All because of you I can rebuild my life and start again All because of you

And I know that my destiny wasn't written in the stars It was just a part of satellites And it's all because of you Yeah, it's all because of you

Don't ever trust the devil, bitch!

I never wanted this It's time that you suffered the consequence I should have know my time was up I crave you your time, and now your soul is mine

I can't feel air inside my lungs I'm dead All because of

You!

All because of you!

I can't feel air inside my lungs, I'm dead! All because of you! I can't rebuild my life and start again All because of you! All because of you! All because of