

Rise And Fall

Crucifix

Too many times I've wished I had said
All the thoughts that were in my head
To all the people that I adore
The splendor never rises to what it's for

I've had enough, I've said enough

This picture paints a thousand words behind this image, the feeling's never heard
You tell me to forgive and forget
But my love can only hurt

The curtains have finally closed
From the ruins I finally rose
To the melancholy of another day
This fate I can never betray this is my rise and fall, rise and fall