

Mountains eventually fall

D.O.A.

The mountain seemed so wide
The mountain seemed so high
It seemed when we started to climb
It seemed we surely would die
And the journey never seemed to end
And it seemed we could not go on
It seemed our spirit would break
And it seemed our hope was all gone

Mountains eventually fall
We know you can't stop us all
'Cos we're, yeah, we're standing tall
Mountains eventually fall-fall-fall!

Into the brain, it all pours in
Our eyes are glued to a screen
And our voices are getting more quiet
And our minds are starting to scream
And we see what they want us to see
Become what they want us to be
It's harder to find a way out
We forget how it feels to be free

Mountains eventually fall
We know you can't stop us all
'Cos we're, yeah, we're standing tall
Mountains eventually fall-fall-fall!

But who wants to give up?
And who wants to be a slave?
And who won't stand up and fight?
And who wants an early grave?
And who won't try to rise up?
And who can't use their voice?
And who has lost all hope?
And who won't make a choice?

Mountains eventually fall
We know you can't stop us all
'Cos we're, yeah, we're standing tall
Mountains eventually fall
