That turbulent uneasy feeling

You see the signs, you taste the blood you lick the boot that g rinds your face in the crud to tell the truth you tell a lie yo u kill yourself to live so that you don't die you swallow the t hings in ads like news reports the words of leaders you quote b ack you take the things you're told as gospel truth I think the re's something that you lack you take the test to see who's, se e who's best but your happy just to be like the rest you want t o stand on your own but your purpose was established at your bi rth you know with things you hear there's something wrong but y ou stand and let is pass because perhaps if you can drink enoug h you'll find some beauty in the trash way down deep inside you know what's true and your soul's still in tact so don't be a s ponge for rotting thoughts take the world back
