In a dream I saw you as Eve in all your beauty I made you believe You found that princess from within I let you play my game and always win Hey, sister You can swim in my soothing waters you can drink from my sources You will rise There will be no fuzz - no one dividing us all you need is trust You will rise If you trust me maybe we can bust it or maybe soothe it for a while I'll be that someone who's always there when trouble comes Let me break through - I wanna help you. I'll be your trusted renovator and I'll be your soulful elevator cause my devotion is like a sea Put all your heavy loads on me And all your wounds will soon be healed your inner strenght will be revealed You're gonna learn, you're gonna grow You're my sister, you should know.