

one for all
nothing for one and the more on your side the better for them
they taught you your place I can't even see your face I don't understand and I can't accept that you feel safer blending in with the rest and it think it's sad
am I safe?
if I don't want to be with you did your new friends take the time to tell you what they're trying to prove for the first time in your life people are afraid of you and it makes me so mad
am I safe?
