Blunt Force Trauma

Damageplan

I never saw whatever it was That came and hit me from behind Then I awoke enraged and confused How could I have been so blind

Life's escaping, don't pretend Judgment comes, but who knows when

So when you least expect That's when it takes effect A tragic twist to alter fate

Instinct is to deny, logic does not apply In time we learn, but it's too late Blunt force trauma to the head

Blazing through life at the speed of sound Don't stop to look at the signs Suddenly everything crashes around you When we forget, life reminds

Clock is running, falling sand Time is slipping through your hands

So when you least expect That's when it takes effect A tragic twist to alter fate

Instinct is to deny, logic does not apply In time we learn, but it's too late Blunt force trauma to the head

But it's too late It's too late It's too late Too late

Blunt force trauma Blunt force trauma

So when you least expect That's when it takes effect A tragic twist to alter fate

Instinct is to deny, logic does not apply In time we learn, but it's too late Blunt force trauma to the head

It's too late It's too late
