

The Dancing King

Damon Albarn

We pause and judge
upon the reigning queen Who looks like a ghost Upon the money most people would agree Oh the soulless dance upon the English dew Across the green fields
a procession grows
We are the out-of-time
people of the rose, sing
We are the out-of-time
people of the rose
The nightingale rejoices
The hour disapproves
The morning unrequited
The moon my heart did choose
Now the dancing king is the sun.
