

Please Look Away

Dance Hall Crashers

Remember that day when you said to me there would never be another

Another hand like mine

You could not think of a day without me in it

I thought you were so kind

So painfully kind

And I thought to myself I'm in over my head

Trying to hide instead

And so I ran away terrified that one day I would feel the same

I know I'm to blame

But now that I need you more than I have ever wanted to

Ooh please, Please dont look away

Little did I know

The unexpected turn this game would take

This game I thought I'd won

I just cant figure out how I got myself

Stuck back in this corner

I'd swear you're having fun

And I can't even blame you for

Only me

Never thought I'd see

That there's a smug

And identical looking apathetic face

Staring back at me

But now that I need you more than I have ever wanted to

Ooh please, Please dont look away

And now that I need you more than I have ever admitted to

Oh Please, please dont look away

But now that I need you more than I have ever wanted to

Ooh please, Please dont look away

And now that I need you more than I have ever admitted to

Oh Please, please dont look away
