In Signo Mortis

Live...between the wolf in your heart And the cross in your back. Betrayed by your belief -Sworn to your arms -You had never any choice. Thou will wander endlessly In the shadows of thy doubt... Possessed by your desires. Fight for the wolf in your heart Against the cross in your back. See the dark side of thy soul As clear as thou Once have seen the sun. Enjoy the pain that lies In this tragic beauty Of your being. Death is worth to be worshipped And damnation consists Of undoubtly truth. Thou broke the cross And fell into everlasting darkness.

Te in signum mortis. Te in corpore immortale. Dargaard